Title: Exploring Love and Respect for Our Country: A Middle Department Activity Report

Activity Description:

We gave students two situations to think about:

1. Personal Belongings: Imagine your favorite shirt or watch falls down. Do you pick it up because you love it or just because you respect it?
2. National Flag: Now, imagine you see the national flag fallen on the street. Would you pick it up out of love or respect?

Student Reactions and Thoughts:

Students had interesting responses. They said they'd pick up their favorite things out of love, but they'd pick up the flag out of respect. This made them think about why they feel differently about personal things and national symbols.

Conclusion:

This activity helped students understand their feelings about their country and its symbols better. By comparing their reactions, they realized that while they may love their personal things, they feel a special respect for national symbols like the flag. We hope activities like these will help students become more thoughtful and proud citizens.
